The Future of Shopping

Many people shop online now, and this trend is going to continue. We do not go to stores as much as before. We will continue to visit stores to see products, but we will not buy them there. Stores will be "showrooms" for the company. For example, clothes stores will organize fun events because they want visitors to see and feel their products. There will be music and food, and visits to stores are going to be like a party or a show. We will all shop online, but we will still want to see and meet people. These "store shows" will help us do that.
